Goodbye Perryville

A woman in Arizona expresses gratitude for the time she spent in a nearby prison

Friday night I brought my "last" meeting to Perryville, a womens' prison in Goodyear, Arizona. My badge expires this month, and in the spirit of rotation, I've chosen not to renew it after five years of service.

Back in the fall of 2008, my heart was terribly broken, so I jumped at the chance to be of service, desperately needing to get out of myself. This commitment very well may have saved my life and my sobriety at that time. Having never been arrested myself (by the grace of God) I'm so grateful I've been able to participate in this aspect of service in Alcoholics Anonymous.

Despite the many obstacles that we may have as volunteers, I feel so fortunate that I got to bring a little experience, strength and hope inside those walls. There may be a tedious process for badging and seemingly endless hoops for us to jump through, but the women behind the walls don't get to pick and choose which meeting they go to. There are, without a doubt, some who can hardly wait for their one weekly meeting. I cannot express how much truth and gratitude they share for that hour: they are hungry for what we have.

I've been going to the San Carlos Unit for quite some time. At my last meeting, there were at least 20 women, including three attending the first time. One of them admitted it was the first time she had introduced herself as an alcoholic. Mind-blowing. Another one was being released in a few days and she was so excited to go back to her home group. Another, who is a regular attendee and is always enthusiastic about reading and sharing, expressed her current frustration and confusion regarding religion and spirituality. I've some experience with this and got to share it.

During the meeting we read the Big Book story "Keys to the Kingdom," about a woman with a low bottom in early AA who experienced inspiring love and growth in the Fellowship, and insisted on continuous action for a healthy sobriety. Many of the women expressed how much they enjoyed it and identified with it. I told the ladies that this was my last meeting, and they had a lot of questions and were very kind. I made sure they knew that I've another service commitment and that it's vital to my sobriety!

Here's another "odd or God" moment: This past Labor Day weekend I attended the Arizona State Convention in Tucson and, while perusing the archives display, I was approached by a woman who seemed to know me. She had attended the meeting I led in Perryville in July and had been released in August. I was so excited to see her attending an event celebrating sobriety, especially one that was more than 100 miles away.

Goodyear is a bit of a drive from where I live and work. Every month when the day came for me to go, I felt tired after having worked all day, and would've rather done about 20 other things. But every time I left the meeting and the heavy metal doors slammed shut behind me, I gained a little more freedom from alcohol. I've yet to experience another high that compares to walking out into the night air to my car and driving away from Perryville. Freedom from bondage is an extraordinary gift.

Thanks to each and every one of you who do this kind of service, or make it possible, and for allowing me to be a part of it.

Traditions Checklist

Tradition Eight: Alcoholics Anonymous should remain forever nonprofessional, but our service centers may employ special workers.

1. Is my own behavior accurately described by the Traditions? If not, what needs changing?
2. When I chafe about any particular Tradition, do I realize how it affects others?
3. Do I sometimes try to get some reward—even if not money—for my personal AA efforts?
4. Do I try to sound in AA like an expert on alcoholism? On recovery? On medicine? On sociology? On AA itself? On psychology? On spiritual matters? Or, heaven help me, even on humility?
5. Do I make an effort to understand what AA employees do? What workers in other alcoholism agencies do? Can I distinguish clearly among them?
6. In my own AA life, have I any experiences which illustrate the wisdom of this Tradition?
7. Have I paid enough attention to the book Twelve Steps and Twelve Traditions? To the pamphlet AA Tradition—How It Developed?

Subscriptions are only $12 a year...we'd love your support!!!

Attitude of Gratitude

If you are grateful for your sobriety and would like to give back to the program that has so freely given to you, please use the Gratitude With Service form below to volunteer for any of EVI's Standing Committees, such as PI/CPC (Public Information / Cooperation with the Professional Community), Special Events, Literature, Unity, or Phone Volunteers. Participating in any of these committees can be a great way to carry the message to the still suffering alcoholic, both in and out of the rooms.

As an ongoing reminder, we are still in need of more volunteers for the 12th Step call list. Although we are great at making sure the phones are answered day or night, finding someone willing and available to do a 12th Step call can sometimes be very challenging, and often times it's hit or miss depending on the time of day. If you have at least one year of continued sobriety and are willing to make yourself available to the alcoholic reaching out to AA for help from time to time, please be sure to complete the form provided below and return to the EVI Central Office via fax, mail, e-mail or in person as soon as possible. Who knows — the life you save could be your own....

Getting to Forgiveness

Before she got sober, she wasn't always the mother she wanted to be

I was a 23-year-old new mother with little understanding of her own alcoholism. When I gave birth to my son, I stayed away from alcohol for about six weeks. But then, one beautiful Saturday, I decided I needed to get out of the house and blow off some steam.

I had nursed my infant son up until that point, but gave him formula that day. As it turned out, he wouldn't take it and when I got home that night from partying, I nursed him. I felt sick with shame. I desperately worried about the consequences of contaminated breast milk. After a full day of worrying, I realized that he was OK and I made a promise to God that I would never take a chance like that again.

Until I did. I repeated the exact behavior I swore I would never do again. I loved being a mom and I would have given my life for this child. Except when I was drinking.

Even after the second incident, it still hadn't occurred to me that alcoholism was propelling my behavior. I still didn't think I had a problem. That is the insidious nature of it. I listened instead to the voice in my head telling me what a horrible person I was.

Many years later and early in sobriety, with the help of a sponsor, I started working the Steps and reliving all these events. I became increasingly depressed and very ashamed. I could not forgive myself. How do you forgive yourself for the unforgiveable? I was searching for some relief from this terrible pain inside me. And alcohol was no longer a solution.

I knew that as long as I could not forgive myself, I could not be of service to my fellows. Then, a dear friend reminded me of a speaker we had heard at a conference. The speaker, with 20 years of sobriety, told her story of forgiveness after she killed a young man in a drunk-driving accident. And I thought that if a person could stay sober after a tragedy like that, while making living amends, then it was possible for me too.

My sponsor reminded me that all these things that happen are all part and parcel of alcoholism. They manifest in different ways in different people's lives.

That is when I saw the miracle in recovery. I had a change in perception. God provides me with miracles, which enable me to forgive myself so that I can use my story to help other people achieve sobriety. It is my responsibility to carry the message and be a living reminder that God is all around us, forgiveness is just a miracle away, and a drink is not my solution today.

March 2016

Jim is told by his sponsor that he needs to participate more in service work. So he applies for the position of treasurer. They hold a group conscience and ask him "What is nine multiplied by four?" He thinks quickly and says "Thirty-three." After the interview, he realizes his mistake. He's surprised when they inform he got the job, despite there being four other candidates. "But I got the wrong answer," he protests. "Yeah, we know. But you were closest."

Central Office Manager's Report

July 15th 2016

We received 504 requests for information and assistance last month. Of those 154 calls were for meeting info, 135 were office visitors and 7 resulted in a 12 step call. Our website stays busy too. It had 30,387 visits in the last 30 days.

A Google business account was created for East Valley Intergroup so we can better manage the information provided about us. Google now displays our 24hr hotline and not the business number. We are also in the process of removing some content that was added before we had an account.

The semiannual inventory has been completed. There was a $94.00 adjustment for shrinkage. Most of the adjusted items relieved from inventory were obsolete or outdated. Total inventory assets were $18,725.92.

Our liability insurance policy has been renewed and our agent has sent the new certificates of liability to the leaseholders of the additionally insured location on the Intergroup policy. If your group participates in the Intergroup policy and your landlord has not received their copy please contact me with a mailing address where our agent should send them and it will be mailed to them. Many of the Groups in the East Valley participate in this coverage and we greatly appreciate those who contribute to help offset this annual expense.

Service day / newsletter folding at the office had 4 attendee last month. The mailers were done before noon and everyone had a good visit. Service Day is being held Wednesday the 27th this month. We'll supply the coffee and donuts. Please share your IGR newsletter copy with your group and encourage them to subscribe for home delivery.

The 12 step list is in need of people willing to provide the hand of A.A. for those trying to get sober. Please take some Gratitude with Service forms back to your Home Group and encourage members to sign up for this or any service positions. The life you save may be your own.

Love and Service

Step Eight~ Made a list of all persons we had harmed and became willing to make amends to them all.

Tradition Eight ~ Alcoholics Anonymous should remain forever non-professional, but our service centers may employ special workers.

Concept Eight~ The trustees are the principal planners and administrators of over-all policy and finance. They have custodial oversight of the separately incorporated and constantly active services, exercising this through their ability to elect all the directors of these entities.

Tradition 8—Alcoholics Anonymous should remain forever nonprofessional, but our service centers may employ special workers.

DID I READ that right? "Alcoholics Anonymous should remain forever nonprofessional"? How on earth could any outfit as big as AA operate on a basis other than professional? How could its members get anything done? How could they hold themselves together? How could they stay in business?

All very mysterious.

To compound the mystery, the Tradition goes on to say that AA "service centers may employ special workers." But if AA is not run professionally, what level of competence can be expected of the staffs working at those centers?

Long before I started asking those perhaps typical questions, I was asking other, more pressing questions. As in so many areas of my recovery, I only half understood things, and one piece of misinformation I had was that AA members did not receive pay for any form of service within an AA framework. With that in mind, I was baffled and resentful when I learned that AA members who made coffee in some of the local groups were being paid. Since I was involved in a coffee detail, too, how come they were getting money and I was not?

Another sore point concerned an AA member who worked for pay at a local clubhouse. I was quite put out, for it seemed to me that he was being paid to stay sober. What about me? I was staying sober, too. Why wasn't I getting paid?

When I had stewed long enough, I asked an older, wiser AA member. He pointed out that making coffee at some of the larger groups was so time-consuming that the groups were better served by paying coffee makers. They might be AA members, yes, but they were not being paid to stay sober; they were paid to make coffee. As for the custodian at the clubhouse, he was not paid to stay sober; he was paid to keep the club running smoothly.

Later on, I began to ask how volunteers could possibly take care of the wide variety of jobs essential to the operation of service centers around the world, including our own GSO (the AA General Service Office of the U.S. and Canada). For instance, the correspondence alone—how could they handle it all? I learned that, because of the sheer volume of work, both local and worldwide, there had to be salaried jobs. And who was better qualified to fill those jobs than our own fellow AAs? Thanks to this Tradition, the line was clearly drawn between Twelfth Step work, which is never done for pay, and professional or salaried work. The Tradition plainly shows us that our service center employees are not being paid to stay sober; they are paid for their special skills.

Another thing that used to confuse me was the matter of AAs who are employed in the field of alcoholism. I was made acutely aware of the confusion when a newcomer I was sponsoring asked me how much money "AA counselors" were paid when they spoke at AA meetings. There are no "AA counselors." But AA members can create such an image if they forget themselves and, on an AA group podium, speak in their professional capacities as workers in the alcoholism field.

The question of whether it was proper for AA members to enter that field as paid workers was one that kept our early membership in a state of unrest. The outcry was that AA knowledge was being sold and the perpetrators would surely succumb to the temptation to use the AA name for further financial gain. The quite genuine consternation was not over money-making itself. What worried AAs was the real possibility that commercializing (professionalizing) this spiritual recovery program would ruin it, and all those recovering in AA would once more be consigned to death.

Only with time and experience did we come to see that our fears were unfounded. Alcoholism counselors who were also AA members showed that they could quite effectively carry the AA message of recovery and hope without receiving pay for Twelfth Step work.

Carrying the message is at the heart of our recovery program, and one very attractive way of doing it is via the telephones at central offices and answering services. I used to think that the people who worked the phones were considered part-time staff and paid accordingly. Since I was always in need of extra money, I signed up at our local intergroup, only to learn that AA members do that work on a strictly volunteer basis. Like any other form of Twelfth Step work, it is done to help assure another day of sobriety for ourselves.

There was no pay, but I was afforded one of my first glimpses of the wisdom of Tradition Eight. I realized that I didn't have to feel resentment in case I was getting paid less than the woman at the phone behind me. Nor did I have to compete with the guy across from me in order to get more than he might be getting. None of us was being paid anything in cash—only in sobriety.

Further Eighth Tradition wisdom came to me slowly, a glimpse at a time, as more of my questions were answered. What about AA members who speak at AA meetings or bring meetings into institutions—do they get paid? What about AA speakers at Regional Forums or workshops or conventions—do they get paid? How about AA speakers who fill commitments at non-AA meetings, such as high schools, parent-teacher groups, or classes of premed college students—how much do those speakers get?

I remember sitting in a coffee shop shortly after coming into AA, in 1960. I was with some affluent-looking men who were talking about "getting on the speakers' circuit" and acquiring "some of that good money." I did not understand that they were talking about their business lives, and I assumed that there was money to be made by becoming an AA speaker. That was for me! But I had another surprise in store when I started speaking at local AA groups and at AA meetings in institutions. No money!

There was still no money when I began to speak as an AA member before non-AA groups. The Public Information Committee of our local intergroup impressed on me the importance of maintaining our amateur standing. Many non-AAs find it difficult to believe that we would visit their classrooms or agencies as volunteers, on a nonprofessional basis. I can't say that I blame them for their skepticism. I would not have believed it once myself.

It seems to me that there is more to professionalism than just the question of pay. There is such a thing as a professional's attitude, whatever the profession may be. It is an attitude that takes pride in a job well done. With me, however, the attitude sometimes strays out of the working area and tells me that I am entitled to rewards of prestige and recognition for being sober and for doing Twelfth Step work. And that is when I am in error with AA and in trouble with myself. When I look for special treatment because of my service activities, I am acting contrary to the spirit of the Traditions.

The Eighth Tradition reminds me that my AA membership does not automatically make me all-knowledgeable in the field of alcoholism. The Tradition encourages me to keep in touch with my local AA service centers and to learn as much as I can about them. It is an equally good idea, in my opinion, to ask about nearby rehab programs for alcoholics. AA's choice of nonprofessionalism as its way of life does not mean that we cannot cooperate with programs that are conducted by professionals.

Finally, a really curious sidelight was thrown on the subject once by a drinking drunk I was twelfth-stepping. He would not, or could not, get honest with himself and tried to laugh off his powerlessness by clever remarks. "You're an alcoholic," he said once, "but me—I am a professional drunk."

What price professionalism?
